The combination on the safe at the Logan Dry Goods stores got out of whack and refused to open. Conn, the machinist, soon drilled into it, removing the "combination" before the door would open.

The free busses have been taken off,
much to the discomfort of the traveling public. Mr. Long has engaged Alex Miller's wagon to meet the trains and carry passengers to and from the Garrard Hotel.

Rice Bengie, candidate for Jailor, is the latest to place his card in THE RECORD. The candidates are beginning to see that the nearest way to the hearts of the people is through the columns of a newspaper.

Every Second Monday.
Dr. Hobson, the dentist, will be at the Garrard Hotel every second Monday in each month, fully prepared to wait on customers. If you want up-to-date work, done in the best possible manner, see him. It

To Our Friends.
To those friends who tendered help
and their sympathy during the hours of gloom and depression, sickness and death, we take this method of extending our heart-felt gratitude.
Mrs. Mary Rice and family.

Seed Wheat.
H. A. B. Marksberry & Son's car of northern seed wheat has arrived, and test 64 to 66 pounds to the bushel. We have several varieties of home grown seed wheat, screened and splendid, for sale. Get your seed wheat now.

Get Pooled.
Do not think that if you come to see my Fall and Winter goods that you are under obligations to buy, for you are not, but come and post yourself
about the styles, so you will know what to buy when you do get ready.
J. C. Hemphill.

Homer is Happy.
Knoxville Sentinel: A ten-pound girl baby put in an appearance at the home of Homer Price, on West Fifth ave., last night shortly after ten o'clock. He contemplates being able to take his postal run to Louisville by Saturday night.

Stenography and Typewriting.
Miss Lenna Hobbs is prepared to do stenographic work and typewriting,
and will be glad to wait upon anyone desiring that kind of work. Her charges are fifteen and twenty-five cents a page. Call up Central telephone office.

Goes Into The Army.
Dr. George Jean, son of Mr. and Mrs.
G. N. Jean, of Danville, after undergoing a rigid competitive examination in Washington city, has passed over several applicants, and has been appointed assistant surgeon with the rank of Lieutenant in the regular army.

Contest.
The annual contest composed of representatives from the public schools Garrard county will be held in Lancaster, October 25th, under the management of Miss Amanda Anderson.
Two medals will be given, one for the best boy and the other for the best girl speaker. Ages from 11 to 17. It

Long Poles.
The Bastin Telephone Co., has placed excellent poles on the Public Square
and principal streets, none of them being under forty feet high. They are chestnut and very smooth and straight. They cost on an average of three dollars each, delivered in town.
They came from Rockcastle county.

Handsome Improvements.
We are pleased to say to the public that our shop has just been papered and painted, and we have one of the prettiest shaving emporiums in the state. Years of experience, sharp razors and polite attention enable us to please the most fastidious. A call will convince you. Henry Duncan,
the old barber. It

John Willis Moor.
Mrs. Robert Embury has received a notice that John Willis Moor will be in Kentucky in October. He will lecture at Lexington Oct. 9, and Covington the 10th. As this is of especial interest to all Christian Endeavor societies, a large crowd will take advantage of the opportunity to hear the gifted speaker.

Say!
Is this your paper, or did you send
over to the neighbors and borrow it?
Send over and borrow his cook stove,
he had to pay for that just like he
he paid for this paper. Understand?

Moved.
I have moved my clothing samples
and insurance office to Dr. Kinnaird's building, on Danville street, where I will be glad to wait on my customers.
Fine line of clothing samples, fits guaranteed and prices to suit you.—
J. H. Kinnaird.

Telephone Rings.
"Hello!" "Is that the mill?" "Yes!"
"Send me 1 sack of feed and 2 bushels of chicken feed!" "All right!" "Customer goes to his barn and finds his feed in box O. K., and says that it is nice, and that much is nice, but that much and no more don't buy cash wheat. Call at the office. Kindly,
Burnam & Rucker.

Served Him Right.
A man in a neighboring town who takes a city paper in preference to a county paper because he got more paper for his money, was attracted by the advertisement of a patent fire escape, which would be forwarded on the receipt of one dollar. He sent the cash and in a few days received a copy of the New Testament.

Another New Score.
We saw Dr. W. Burnett in Louisville Thursday, and he informed us that he and his brother were on the road to Chicago to buy a big stock of dry goods, shoes, gents' furnishing goods, etc., and they will be opened in the room in the Garrard Hotel within a week or ten days. The doctor's brother has been in business for years and is an up-to-date merchant.

Give Himself Up.
Richmond Pantagraph:—Stewart
Saunders, of Garrard county, who was indicted by the Grand Jury for criminally assaulting a young girl but who was never arrested voluntarily walked into town, yesterday and gave himself up. He gave bond for $2,500 and admitted to bail to appear at the next term of court. The alleged offense is said to have been committed in this county, about a year ago.

Two Ballots This Fall.
According to the ruling of the secretary of state and attorney general, county and municipal tickets must be printed on separate ballots and must be deposited in separate boxes. This will not require separate officers, however, the voter being handed two ballots when he goes in to vote. The sensible way, would be to have separate officers and voting places, as the two voting places in town are not enough
now.

Meeting at Presbyterian Church.
A protracted meeting was commenced at the Presbyterian church
Tuesday night, conducted by Rev. Joe Hopper. Services are conducted every forenoon and evening. "Uncle Joe" Hopper is one of the best and most widely-known ministers in the state,
and as he was raised in Lancaster,
large congregations will doubtless greet him at every service. THE RECORD has not been informed as to how long the meeting will continue.

Better Be Careful.
To those who through ignorance or pure cussedness steal or mistreat dogs,
THE RECORD wishes to call attention to the fact that when the tax is paid on a dog he becomes property, and is entitled to as much protection under the law as any other stock. Several good bird dogs have been stolen recently, and one was shot not long ago by some heathen with more whisky and bullets than brains. If hunters and dog owners will prosecute a few cases,
it will have a good effect.

The C. W. E. M.
The district meeting of the Chritian Women's Board of Missions, held in this city last week was largely attended. The delegates were from Rockcastle, Madison, Lincoln and Garrard, and quite an interesting meeting was had. A bountiful dinner was spread and a splendid program carried out without a hitch. Many compliments have been passed on the way
the Lancaster ladies entertained their guests. As THE RECORD man was in Louisville, we were unable to get a more complete account of the meeting.

The Latest Improved.
The Bastin Telephone Co., has received its new switch board, and it is one of the best money can buy. It has four hundred "drops" and all the latest improvements. The new phones will also be the latest, the bell ringing when the receiver is taken down, thus doing away with the old crank at the side. As it will also "ring off" when one is through talking and hangs up the receiver, it will save no end of annoyance at the office. Work will be commenced next week on putting in the new office over Stormes' store, as all the material is here. This is costing a mint of money, but Mr. Bastin says he is not going to stop until Lancaster has the best system of telephones in Kentucky.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

TO THE CITIZENS OF GARRARD COUNTY:

At the practically unanimous demand of my own party and urgent solicitation of other friends, I have at last consented to become a candidate for the office of County Attorney on the Republican ticket.

I had not expected to again ask for the suffrage of my fellow-citizens, but in view of the great number of electors, regardless of their party affiliation, who have seen proper to insist on my nomination, I have, with some reluctance, consented to accede to their request.

In thus again asking the citizens of my county for their support for this, one of the most important offices in the gift of its people, I am not unmindful of the fact that it is an office fraught with the gravest responsibilities and duties, it having not only an important influence on the maintenance of peace and good order throughout the county, but is also perhaps, the most important factor in shaping and controlling the amount of taxes that your Fiscal Court finds it necessary to levy on your property each year to meet the current expenses of your county affairs.

And in this connection, I hope I may be pardoned for referring with some pride to my former administration of this important duty during the term I had the honor to occupy the office, and when, after my repeated assaults on all useless extravagance, and on certain most time honored leaks in your county treasury, the levy necessary to meet all the current expenses of your county, and then leave a handsome surplus in your treasury at the close of the year, was less than one-third, barely more than one-fourth, of the amount of each and every successive levy for county purposes made since my retirement from that position.

And since the late decision of the Court of Appeals that the Court of the city of Lancaster no longer has jurisdiction to try whisky cases, and with blind tigers not only flourishing throughout the county but, with their Government Licenses all over the corporate limits of Lancaster, actually boasting of their dispensing to your sons, each and every week, three barrels of whisky and over two thousand bottles of beer, with the county attorney being hereafter practically the only safeguard to prevent their extending their sphere, and running even wider open than now,—this office is of even greater importance than ever before to such of our parents as wish to protect their boys from this most vicious and destructive influence, and it well behooves them to make no mistake in selecting and deciding who shall hereafter say whether this condition of things shall continue to exist.

With a high conception of the duties of this office, with a higher conception of my obligation to my own and my neighbor's sons, having steadfastly during the twenty-two years of my law practice refused to defend the keeper of a blind tiger, nor in the thirty-nine years of my existence taken a drink of whisky, if honored again by your election to this high trust, I pledge you, that whatever of experience, ability or talent I may possess, shall be exerted to so administer its important duties as to not only encourage and promote peace and good order and a strict obedience to the law throughout the county, but also to prevent any and all illegitimate, improper and unnecessary drains and expenses on your county treasury.

Fearing that pressing business engagements, and the limited time left for my canvass may prevent my seeing each of you personally, I take this method of announcing my candidacy and assuring you that if my candidacy meets with your approval, I shall be very grateful for whatever assistance you may render toward promoting my election. Respectfully, Aug 19th.

W. McC. JOHNSTON.

CENTRAL RECORD.

— An Independent, Local Newspaper. —
Issued WEEKLY.

LOUIS LANDRAM, Editor and Publisher.

Lancaster, Ky., Oct. 3rd, 1901.

J. W. YERKES, United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue, referring to the assassination of President McKinley, is reported to have said: "Restricted immigration is generally suggested in this connection, and, while, in a degree, I favor that, still I can not avoid bearing in mind the fact that the three assassins of Presidents, Booth, Guiteau and Czolgosz, were American born, and not foreign subjects. I believe the true solution would be the increase of patriotism among the people; a higher regard for public officials; a limitation of the privilege of public utterance, both on the platform and through press and pamphlet, when such utterances lead to the growth of the spirit of lawlessness; and the passage of laws with supreme penalties attached for those who even attempt to take the life of high officials. No special detectives or police officials can protect public men from the constant menace of assassination."

From present indications there will be few "straight" tickets cast in the approaching election for county officers. The people are beginning to realize the fact that this is a free country and they have a right to do and think as they please. The old idea of voting for a taller dog simply because he was on the ticket is rapidly playing out, and we hope it will not be long before the lash of the party whip will have no effect whatever, and men will vote like the Irishman who said he cast his ballot "As I dom please."

The miserable wretch who murdered the president has been doomed to die in the electric chair, but the other anarchists who were arrested have been set free. The fact that they claimed to be anarchists ought to have been evidence enough to send them to prison, but it is claimed "there is no law" to cover the case. As we understand it, law demands that which is right and prohibits that which is wrong, so string the culprits up. There would be no kick raised.

We are very fond of Green Keller, of the Carlisle Mercury, but if he don't quit running our thunder without proper credit there's going to be trouble. We realize the fact that he uses our stuff as a contrast to his excellent productions, but then add—"Central Record" at the end, Green, so the people will know where such weak productions are ground out.

Ex-Gov. BOB TAYLOR, of Tennessee, is authority for the statement that two drops of Kentucky whisky would make a rabbit spit in the face of a bull dog. Certainly it will when Brer Rabbit has been taking a nip with the dog, as he knows when the dog has the same quantity, he don't care a blank if his face is spit into.

LOCAL talent will produce a farce comedy, called "A Spring Chicken," at the Lexington opera house soon. This is one case where a preacher would be forgiven by the public for going to a show.

The nine lives of a cat pass into insignificance when compared to those of the Boers. The British "exterminate" them every few days, but they bob serenely up to undergo the operation again.

The assassin Czolgosz, has one consolation, and that is he will not have to buy winter underwear this Fall. Only a few short days stand between "Chol" and the fire works.

The Cynthia Democrat without any editorial matter is like a toddy with the liquor left out. Sharpen the old gray goose quill, Jim, and air your views.

FLATWOODS.

George Elam sold a mule colt to Sol Rigby for $45.

J. C. Clouse sold a mare to William Campbell for $25.

J. C. Clouse sold a mule colt to Wm. Coldiron for $23.

James Miller sold a mule colt to John Adams for $35.

Ebb Cook sold at Lancaster court five 600 lb steers for 3c.

Joe Lawson sold a mule colt at Lancaster court day for $20.

J. C. Clouse bought a mule colt from John Richardson for $25.

Mrs. Sallie Stigall sold three mule colts to J. C. Fox for $115.

It was reported that Herrin Mozier, second son of Jas. Mozier, was killed on the railroad out in the mountains last week.

There was quite a number of very friendly visitors in this vicinity last week. We suspect they had an ax to grind.

Miss Susie Portwood, of Valley View is visiting her sister, Mrs. Geo. Rogers. Mr. Moore, of Madison county is visiting his son-in-law, Wm. Coldiron. Mrs. Jennie Painter, of St. Louis, who has been visiting her son, S. E. Hammack, returned home last week, on account of the death of her nephew, George Scott, who was killed on the railroad. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boalin, of Wallacetown, visited at Geo. Elams, Sunday. We are glad to report that Miss Clemma Furr, who has been very sick of typhoid fever at her new home near Cloverdale, Ind., has recovered.

A Typical South African Store.

O. R. Larson, of Bay Villa, Sundays River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at which can be purchased anything from the proverbial "needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railway station and about twenty five miles from the nearest town. Mr. Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past twelve months, no less than fourteen have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record." For sale by R. E. McRoberts, druggist.

A CARD.

TO THE CITIZENS OF GARRARD COUNTY:

As I have been confined to my room for two months and could not get out among the people, I take this method of asking the voters of Garrard County for their support for Jailer at the next November Election.

Under the direction of my physician I am at Martinsville, Ind., where I am improving in health, both as to the rheumatism and my eyes, and I hope to be out soon.

Thanking all my friends for their support and for their friendly interest in my race during my misfortune

I am,

Your Friend,

RICE BENGE.

To-morrow "Will Be" or "To-morrow Is"?

A dispute over the question whether you should say "To-morrow will be Thursday" or "To-morrow is Thursday" is needless, for either expression is allowable. "To-morrow will be Thursday" means that, looking forward from today as the point of view, the speaker thinks of to-morrow as a future time, and says of it that it "will be" Thursday; "To-morrow is Thursday" means that, without any reference to today, the speaker thinks of a certain day as "to-morrow," and says of it that it "is" Thursday.—Elizabeth S. Withey, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

A Delightful Serenade.

The Southern Military Band, of Crab Orchard, came down Thursday evening and gave a delightful concert in the Park, which was enjoyed by a large crowd of people. The band was organized some time since and incorporated, thus it will be seen that the boys have gone about the matter in a business like way. They have good instruments and handsome uniforms. Notwithstanding the fact that they have only been practicing a short time, they put up as good music as most bands of years of experience. The members are young gentlemen of moral habits, not one ever indulging in drink. This band has a bright future, and THE RECORD wishes them success in every undertaking. Had the boys let us know they were coming, a much warmer reception would have been arranged, but they came unannounced and at a time when most of the business men were in Louisville,

It is easier to break a promise than it is to fracture the crust of the average boarding house pastry.

Garter Superstitions.

A worn garter is regarded by some people as quite a valuable present, for it brings to its new wearer luck, or, at any rate, is supposed to do so.

A bride should always wear a blue silk garter at her wedding. Her garter is often given her by a friend who has taken away its newness by wearing it a few times, says Home notes. The wearing of the garter does not end the ritual concerning it. After the wedding ceremony it is either cut into pieces or hidden. When it is hidden, the bridesmaids hunt for it, and the finder is assured of being happily married before the year is out. When it is cut, it is divided among the bridesmaids to give to each good luck and a devoted husband. Sometimes the bride bestows her garters on the first bridesmaid, and in Germany each bridesmaid receives a pair of blue white silk garters from the bride.

Slept Twenty Years.

"Tell a man that he has slept 20 years and he'll give you a pitying stare," remarked a man with a mania for statistics, "but it's a fact. The man who has reached the age of sixty has spent one third of his life, or 20 years, in slumber, and if a man is lucky enough to live until he is 75 he has Rip Van Winkle beaten to a standstill. The average person sleeps eight hours a day, or exactly one-third of his day's life. Again if you abruptly inform a man of 60 that he has stowed a herd of cattle under his belt in his time he will put you down as a third year man at an insane asylum. Figures, however, don't lie, and you can give him a statistical knockout. A healthy man eats, on a conservative estimate, one pound of meat every day of his life, and in 60 years will devour 21,000 pounds. Allowing 1,000 pounds as the average weight of a beef, you have 21 cattle, a pretty respectable herd, I think. There are lots of other surprising things that figures will demonstrate, but I haven't time to spring them just now."

Treated Us "White."

The Lancaster business men, who went to Louisville last week, are under many obligations to the L. and N. railroad management for kind favors. In the first place, they sent us the special coach, after a request had been made by Mr. Farra. It was a high-back coach and one of the nicest in the company's possession. Then, in addition to this, we requested at Louisville that we be sent straight on from Stanford that night, and avoid the wait at Rowland. This request was readily complied with, and as soon as the train from Cincinnati arrived, it was side tracked, the engine cut off and attached to our special coach, and in less time than it takes to tell it, our coach was standing at the depot in Lancaster, about two hours sooner than the regular train would have arrived. The engine returned to Rowland and took its train on up to Stanford. It is something decidedly out of the ordinary run of matters for the engine to be taken off a regular train to pull a party of excursionists, but the L. and N., officials, having learned that there is such a place as Lancaster on the map, seem now to be trying to out-do themselves in our behalf.

A FINE TRIP.

Lancaster Citizens Visit Louisville And Receive a Royal Welcome.

The fifty-one Lancaster business men who made the trip to Louisville last week will long remember with much pleasure the happy and cordial welcome extended them by the merchants of that bustling city. As stated in last issue of THE RECORD, a special train was run from Richmond over the L. & N. to the Falls City, the business men of several towns being given a special invitation to be the guests of the Louisville Board of Trade on that day. At six o'clock, the Lancaster gentlemen boarded a special coach, which had been placed at the disposal of the Lancaster party by the L. & N. people. This coach was tastefully decorated, large streamers, bearing the words "Lancaster Commercial Club" hanging on either side. With clever Tom Hurley, one of the oldest and best engineers on the road, at the throttle, the train sped along at a rapid rate, and Louisville was reached at 11 o'clock. A committee of six members of the Board of Trade met the train and escorted the visitors to special street cars, thence to the Board of Trade building, where all registered and partook of light refreshments. The party then went to the Fair Grounds, where an elegant dinner was served in the German Village. A photograph was taken of the party, and the crowd scattered over the grounds to see the many interesting exhibits. The Fair is the biggest and best attraction Louisville has ever offered, and those who can take it in and fail to do so will regret it. Neither money nor pains have been spared in getting together the best of everything, and the promoters are to be congratulated upon the great success they have achieved.

The Lancaster party did not hesitate to tell their Louisville friends that they wanted to trade with them and gave their reasons for not doing so. The latter said they were aware of the fact that we are almost cut off from the outside world, and they were willing to do anything they could consistently to help us out of the hole. Nearly all the party returned Thursday night, convinced that the people of Louisville are their friends, and all resolved to stand up for the good merchants of the Falls City and quit sending all their money out of the state.

TIMELY ADVICE.

As the election in Garrard will continue to warm up, we think the following timely advice, from the Democrat to the people of Lincoln, is well worth the careful and prayerful perusal of some of our would-be shooters. Two candidates at Stanford came to blows last week, and, of course, friends of both men "rubber-necked" in. Speaking of the affair, the Democrat says: "The scrap between the candidates for sheriff ought to put people to thinking. Two-thirds of the men in Lincoln county are now but little less tame than wild animals. They are ready to jump in and fight their best friend if he says a word not in accord with their political views. One young man in another State killed another because he said Roosevelt wouldn't make a good President. There needs to be serious council in Lincoln county or the undertakers' business will increase. We believe anybody worthy of being called a respectable citizen will neither give nor take 'sass,' but will attend to his own business. If he don't do it, then he gets into trouble. There is a time—we know not when, a place, we know not where—when a man can say more than he ought to. * * * One life is worth much more than all the Lincoln county offices. One soul sent unprepared to its account, to linger through an ever-enduring eternity in a roasting, seething, unquenchable fire of brimstone—sent to hell fighting over politics, which is another name for the region of the damned, is worth much more than all the Lincoln county offices combined. What ought to be done is for every man really interested in the welfare of Lincoln county, to think before they speak in this campaign. * * * Fighting is a bad way to elect a governor. Had the belligerents been armed Tuesday doubtless there would have been bloodshed. Another blot might have marred the reputation of Kentucky, the 'Dark and bloody ground.' We honestly believe that any man who will try to get up a fight in the county at this time is a traitor to his country, to his friends, to his church and to his party. If any man don't see as you do, don't fight him. Don't reach for your gun. That is lawful only in self-defense. Attend to your business, Democrats and Republicans; let the other fellow believe what he pleases, but if you can't convince him by argument that he is wrong, don't shoot him. Let's get things cooled down and deal with political problems like gentlemen. If the people of Stanford and Lincoln county will resolve individually and collectively to always remember that 'he that is without sin should cast the first stone,' and that to make a town and county prosper, no vicious publications should be made of one citizen about another, unless there are hundreds of witnesses to the foundation of the publication, strangers would be looking to Stanford as a city on a hill. What every man and woman in Stanford and Lincoln county wants is that people of other States should know that we are at least civilized, and not believe from publications that Lincoln county has plenty of men ineligible to office on account of ignorance and that some are blood-thirsty. We have the interest of individuals of Lincoln at heart, regardless of party affiliations, church membership, age, sex or color, present or previous condition, and have proved this in every issue of this paper for nearly three years.

Col. Andrew J. Rice.

The illness of Col. Andrew J. Rice, which has been mentioned in THE RECORD for several issues, came to an end at the family residence, in Lower Garrard, Friday night when he passed peacefully into the Great Beyond. For many years that dread disease, rheumatism, had caused him intense pain, and only temporary relief was found. He made frequent trips to Martinsville, Ind., and to many resorts which afforded relief to other sufferers, but none ever gave him but the slightest ease. Although he suffered almost constantly, he seldom complained, and when confined to his bed, that ready wit, so characteristic of the man, never left him, and he kept those about him laughing at his happy strain of humor. On several occasions, during the past three months, it was thought the end was near, but he rallied and hopes of his again getting out were entertained. Col. Rice was born in Garrard county, near his present home, December 24th, sixty-nine years ago. He received a good education and devoted his life to farming. With the exception of a year or two spent in Danville, he has resided where the family now live during his entire life. He has been very successful in business, having made as much money as any man in the county. He was not the kind of man that hoards his wealth, but, on the contrary, called in his friends and neighbors to enjoy what he made. We once heard a man say, "Big Rice would pull the coat off his back and give it to a friend if that friend was in need," and this remark tells just the character of man that he was. He had one brother, Col. Robert Rice, and a sister, the former having died some years since. He was twice married, the first wife being a sister of 'Squire Ike Myers. To the first union were born three children, two of whom are living, Robert and Jake, the former residing in Texas, and the latter in Missouri. His second wife was Miss Mary Mock, of Boyle county, who, with five sons, Howard, Virgil, Dolph, Victor and Wilson, survive him.

Col. Rice was a life-long member of the Christian church, and for years an officer in the Pleasant Grove church. No man stood higher in the county than he, and no one enjoyed the respect and friendship of more people. He was a man who took much interest in young men, and never failed to have a pleasant word of encouragement to his young friends. He believed in enjoying life, and never missed an opportunity to make those about him happy. His many sterling qualities were too well known by the people in this section of the state for this feeble pen to dwell upon them. A good man has gone to his reward, and may the God of mercy and love comfort those who are left to mourn his loss.

Funeral services were conducted by Elder J. L. Allen at the family residence Monday morning, and the remains taken to Danville, where the interment was in charge of Ryan Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templar. The friends following the remains from the house to the Cemetery, made a procession estimated to be one mile in length. The largest crowd ever seen in the Danville Cemetery gathered to pay honor to their dead friends memory. (The accompanying picture was taken last winter, at which time a number of friends, the writer among them, had gathered to eat a Christmas dinner with him.)

Brain-Food Nonsense.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for brains. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. G. Reb Goddard took 15 blue ribbons at the Springfield fair with his string of Red Leafs. He has taken 40 premiums at Central Kentucky fairs this year, every horse being by the famous sire Red Leaf. Feed being high priced, stock high priced, then why not take better care of the fodder crop than ever. See that the fodder is cut close to the ground and set good in the shock. Cut a number of strings about three feet long and when the corn is shocked tie the fodder in bundles, five or six bundles to the shock. They will keep better and when it is loaded there will be no waste and it can be handled better and much more put on the wagon with less labor.

In many parts of the country fowls are dying with rouse or limber neck. A gentleman tells us that two years ago ten or fifteen of his hens were affected with this disease and had been thrown aside apparently lifeless, when some one told him to dose them with cod liver oil. He gathered them up and poured two or three spoonfuls of oil down their throats and that afternoon they got up and began walking about and got well. It is worth trying.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

A Greencastle, Ind., man owns a walnut log for which he has refused an offer of $1,500. He found it while making an excavation in the bank of a creek, and dug it out of the clay and sand, and a lumberman who examined it offered the price first mentioned. The owner asks $1,800. The timber appears to have been covered for centuries, and is as black and hard as mahogany.

The drought has given a boom to hogs that promises permanency. They are still higher in the markets. The latest quotations make no minimum for any regular grades less than $6, and from that figure quotations run up to $7. The demand from eastern buyers has been limited by the possibility of obtaining supplies nearer home, where prices have not gone up so rapidly as in Chicago and other great markets.

Many species of corn are growing in Bolivia which are unknown in the United States. One variety has grains twice as large as those of the largest corn grown by our farmers. One kind is of a bright yellow color, every grain being as large as a thumb nail. When bitten it crumbles up almost like flour, and with a slight bruising it could be turned into meal.

An exchange says our exports of cattle are still very heavy, and for that reason the foreign markets have not a chance to tone up. The drought in England may have the effect of decreasing home supplies later on, for not as many cattle have been put on feed as usual, though the turnip crop is reported fairly good. Shipments abroad are fully up to a year ago and promise to be quite heavy the balance of the season, as much space has been engaged on ocean steamers.

RIGHT THINKING.

In the Controlling Energy of a Man's Life—Religion the Architect of Fortune.

For as he thinketh in his heart, so is he.—Proverbs, 23:7.

The world does not yet appreciate the fact that the controlling energy in a man's life is the kind of thinking he does. So true is this that if we could clairvoyantly discover the thoughts which permanently reside in his brain we could predict with absolute certainty the quality of his life. Our opinion of what will afford us the greatest amount of happiness, give us the largest satisfaction, determine our character with infinite accuracy. It is like the rudder which controls the course of the vessel, or more significant still, it resembles the boiler and engine in the hold which alone make any movement possible.

With an enlightened conscience for guide and noble thoughts for motive power a man will as surely and steadily work his way toward Heaven as the transatlantic steamer plows the ocean toward the port which is its manifest destination.

If you are convinced that there is neither honor among men nor virtue among women, that honesty need not stand in the way of acquisition, but is only a valuable aid to the hand that is easier to attain your end, then you can trust my forecast of what you will be in middle life just as I can trust in the law of cause and effect. Never a stone was thrown into the air which could defy gravitation and continue its journey at its own pleasure. There is no such stone wandering through space. Every one that has gone up has been inexorably arrested by the law and has sooner or later come back to the earth with a thud. And never a man has cherished mean or selfish thoughts and reached a high spiritual level. He may begin with the defiant consciousness of strength, but he learns at last that he is not master of the universe, and he will by and by in sackcloth and ashes to repent his error of judgment. This is only another way of saying that God has not vacated the throne, but still reigns in full supremacy.

Religion, then, is the architect of fortune. I am not speaking of your creed, which, like your overcoat, may be taken off and laid aside without making any change in your manhood; neither do I refer to the form of worship which is best adapted to your temperament, for religion is independent of both. I have in mind those mighty ideas with which the New Testament throbs like the heart of a giant, those moral principles which have brought order out of the chaos of human passion and given us an ideal which is as clear to our mental vision as Orion in the wintry sky, blazing with a light that fills earth and Heaven with glory. Religion means your surrender to the wisdom of God, the denial of self and love in which all planets and systems are submerged, that you shall do what you know to be right, sure that in the end your very sacrifices will produce more happiness than mere wealth ever dreamed of purchasing. Religion means an appreciation, fostered and maintained by the convictions of a sturdy manliness and the serenity of soul which is the result thereof are worth more to you as a child of immortality than political influence or fame or the grand total of all things which you ever coveted.

With such a conviction as that, as necessary to the true soul as fresh air is to the blood, you are equipped for the struggle of life as was the young sir knight who knelt at the cathedral altar and dedicated his sword and his good right arm to the service of God. That conviction is the mint's stamp on the coin which gives it its value. To be in doubt on this subject is to be like the child who is afraid in the dark, he knows not at what.

We need to be sure that right is right, that the Almighty is always with the right, as sure as the mariner is that his compass will never fail him, and then we can be peaceful and undisturbed by the "crash of worlds." Life may bring what it will, there is another life in which the crooked shall be straightened out. We may weep, as who does not, but it is only the surface of the ocean that is eternal calm. Death loses its terror and we no longer shrink in dread, for it is only God's servant sent to usher us into the eternal light wherein they dwell who have parted from us in sorrow and who wait to give us welcome.

Religion is all that and much more that cannot be expressed.—George H. Hepworth, in N. Y. Herald.

DISCOVERED BILL NYE.

Western Man Who Claims to Have Early Appreciated the Famous Humorist.

Col. Bill Root, of Laramie, Wyo., is probably entitled to the credit of having "discovered" Bill Nye, the humorist. Root now has charge of the Indian village at the pan-American exposition, and tells the following story of how he first met the writer:

"Bill Nye," when he was a young man, wasn't much; in fact, folks in Laramie wondered whether he would eventually dry up and blow away or just die of plain starvation. Things never would come his way, and that same way led through many rocky places. Everything to which he turned his hand seemed to wither under it, and he began to think that he was a 'hoodoo.'"

"Bill was a pretty discouraged sort of a chap when I said to him and his wife one day: 'Come out to the ranch and stay with me for awhile.' They came. Long before this time Frances, Bill's wife, had made up her mind that Bill was east in the mold of a lawyer, and nothing would do but Bill must study law. So Bill came with his old books and would wander around the ranch trying to imbibe ozone and pages of Blackstone. But the cankerworm of worry was in his mind and the ozone and several of the things I had in an upboard seemed to do little good."

NOT DEXTEROUS AT FORTY.

It Is Said Men's Hands Lose Their Cleanness When They Reach Two Score Years.

Long after a man's hands have ceased to do the bidding of the mind that directs them his mind retains its full measure of vigor. Instances are numerous of men who have reached the allotted age of life continuing in the activities of the world as long as those activities are of the brain and not of the hand. But the mechanic's highest skill is shown when he is between the ages of 30 and 40. After the latter age his hand loses its cunning, but if the brain has been taught to work he can continue to labor and may even surpass the earning power of his hand. After 40 the man does not respond nearly as certainly and readily to the orders and the willingness of the brain, says an industrial authority.

A good instance of the early death of manual activity is seen in the button trade. A skillful button-maker in his prime, between 30 and 40 years of age, can make $11 or $12 a week, being in ivory an output each day of his little hands of about 3,000 buttons. He gets to be 45 years old he can make $6 or $7 a week if he is lucky, while 20 years later, even if he still enjoys sound health and faculties, all he can make is $3 a week.

FISH FLEE FROM THUNDER.

It Is Known to Fishermen That They Seek Refuge from Storm in Deep Water Away from Coast.

Fishermen along the Atlantic coast know the peculiar effect of thunderstorms on fish, and save themselves unnecessary work because they know it. Of the army of 40,000 fishermen that occasionally or regularly wet lines in the waters contiguous to New York, 35,000 never think of going ashore after two or three days of thunder and lightning. They know better. The other 5,000, hopeful and imaginative, with nothing better to do, take a chance at it any way, and come home with fisherman's luck. The highest authorities among bay men say that thunder drives the fish into deep water off shore, and that vivid lightning so disturbs their sleep that they take a day or two off for rest and recuperation.

Thus it happens that on the third day after a hard storm with fulminations and pyrotechnics, the catch is phenomenal, whereas on the first or second day after there is no sport except sailing over the bounding billows or groaning on a ground swell.

NEW FATTENING FAD.

Strict Regimen of Bananas Results in Curing Nervous Dyspepsia and Nerves Flesh.

A lady who was recently so ill of nervous dyspepsia as to be in bed, and so thin that she gave up all hope of ever getting fat, secured a new doctor who used her for an experiment in diet. He placed her upon a strict regimen of bananas, nothing else, says the New York Herald.

The result was marvellous. She grew to really like them, when prepared by baking and served with sugar and cream, or cold, in the form of delicate jelly. She also had banana fritters and biscuit made of banana flour. Daily she grew more plump and rosy, and now she is well, and expects to stay.

Bananas contain starch in its most easily assimilated form. Homeopathic doctors have for some years held this tropical fruit unwholesome, but it is only indigestible when unripe. As most bananas arrive here and are eaten in a green state, cooking is necessary to develop their valuable nutritive qualities.

The delicious large red banana from Cuba is the most acceptable one, but now very scarce. The cheapness of this cure is one of its charms, for almost all treatment for weak nerves and poor nutrition is very expensive. The happy woman who tried the fad is telling all her thin friends about it and assuring them that it really is great.

An Ancient Deed.

A curious deed is on file in Northumberland county, Pennsylvania, according to the Sunbury Republican. It bears date of October 9, 1793. In a series of whereas it traces the ownership of the land conveyed from the Creator of the earth, who "by parole and conveyance doth enfeoff the parents of mankind, to-wit, Adam and Eve, of all that certain tract of land called and known in the planetary system as the earth," down through the ages to the maker of the deed.

"Bread and butter state," he way Minnesota will be known hereafter. This is a name that she is rightly entitled to. Last year she ground out 26,630,500 barrels of flour and churned 60,000,000 pounds of butter.

A SLIPPERY SHOT.

BY PAUL BLAKE.

"There, now, you stupid imp, you've inked my fingers all over!"

"Never mind, go and clean them. Hurry up, you're stony just time!"

The aggrieved boy, Tom Barnard, gave a hurried look at the clock, and then dived out of the schoolroom down the passage which led to the lavatory. It lacked only three minutes before the bell would sound for school! There was no time to be lost.

When he entered the lavatory, he found his friend Merriwell busily scrubbing away at one of the basins.

"Slip me over the soap," he cried, taking his stand before a basin and turning on the tap full. "Look sharp!"

"That time was such an object, Merriwell could not resist that most delightful of sensations, the squeezing of a piece of wet soap in his hand and letting it gradually slip out between his fingers and his thumb. How it travels! What curious excursions it makes!"

Merriwell tried to shoot the slippery missile to his friend. But it is about as difficult to fire wet soap by compression as to throw a boomerang, and it was no matter of surprise to either of them to see the soap fly nearer to the thrower than to his object. Merriwell rushed forward and picked it up.

"One more shot!" he cried. "I'll fire straight this time!"

At that moment the turret clock gave its well-known preliminary wheeze. It may have unsettled Merriwell's aim. Whatever the cause, the unfortunate fact remained that the soap flew straight through the window, breaking a pane of glass. The broken pieces of glass fell into the courtyard below; a juvenile voice shouted up:

"Hullo, you fellows, won't you catch it?"

At the steps of an approaching master were heard, and the boys fled towards the schoolroom; their wet hands thrust into their pockets.

It was a summer afternoon, so in a few minutes the discomfort arising from their condition ceased. The old clock ceased striking, the passage doors were locked, and school began.

Neither of the boys, however, felt quite at ease. Merriwell anticipated unpleasant questions arising from the broken window and the soap, which would be discovered in the yard. Barnard was aware that when his ink hands were seen it would mean 50 cents, and he was determined to keep them as much as possible, and putting them behind him when he stood up to construe, avoided the master's eye and saved himself.

The hour rolled slowly by, and the time came to change classes. The two boys were in the same form, and sat next each other, not infrequently giving each other assistance. But in this particular study—arithmetic—Barnard required no help; he was always up in his lesson, and easily gained the best marks day after day. This afternoon was no exception; he ran off the names of the principal towns on the Volga river, when his hand and face came next to give the principal heights of the Himalayas everyone knew that the question was a mere trifle for Barnard.

That was the surprise of the class to hear him utter something about 3,000 feet. This was utterly wrong, as even Jorkins, the dunce of the class, could tell.

"Come, Barnard," said the master, kindly, "you cannot have heard what I asked. Try again. The heights of the principal mountains of the Himalayas range?"

In vain; Barnard was unable to collect his thoughts; he grew red, stammered, and finally said: "I don't know."

"Next boy," said the master. As soon as it was safe to do so, Merriwell whispered to his chum:

"What on earth's the matter?"

"Look up at the other end of the room," was the frightened response.

The room was a long one. At the end nearest the door was the master's throne; classrooms opened out at intervals along the walls. At the farthest from the entrance was held the class of which Barnard and Merriwell were members.

Merriwell did not at first perceive the cause of his friend's distress. But it soon became apparent that the water above the door was a small stream of water, spreading itself when it met an obstruction, and then moving on again down the room.

"Jiminy!" whispered Merriwell; "that came home with the laundry!"

"Yes," whispered miserable Barnard; "I must have left the tap running. I know I turned it full on to wash, and your sending that soap through the window made me forget to turn it off again. I never thought of it till I saw the water coming under the door. What can I do?"

"The place must be pretty well flooded," said Merriwell, by way of comfort; "it's got to travel all along the passage before it can get here. The doctor must see it in a minute!"

In less time than that the doctor's attention was called to it by one of the head boys, who perceived the water above his feet. The cause of the mischief was guessed in a moment, and a monitor splashed through the passage to turn off the offending tap. Then he came back, with his shoes full of water, to report.

A message was sent round to the house-keeper to see about mopping up of the floor, and another message to the masters of the school to detain all boys who were behind in the lavatory after dinner. It happened that Barnard and Merriwell were the only ones who had been there, so it was not hard to fix upon the culprits.

Fortunately, no great harm had been done, so Barnard came off more lightly than he had anticipated, Merriwell being the more unfortunate of the two, for he had to pay for the broken glass out of his pocket money.

"Never mind," said Barnard, consolingly, as they escaped; "twas lucky you didn't have to pay for the soap as well!"—Golden Days.

Poison Oak Poison Ivy

are among the best known of the many dangerous wild plants and shrubs. To touch or handle them quickly produces swelling and inflammation with intense itching and burning of the skin. The eruption soon disappears, the sufferer hopes forever; but almost as soon as the little blisters and pustules appeared the poison had reached the blood, and will break out at regular intervals and each time in a more aggravated form. This poison will linger in the system for years, and every atom of it must be forced out of the blood before you can expect a perfect, permanent cure.

SSS Nature's Antidote

FOR Nature's Poisons, is the only cure for Poison Oak, Poison Ivy, and all noxious plants. It is composed exclusively of roots and herbs. Now is the time to get the poison out of your system, as delay makes your condition worse. Don't experiment longer with salves, washes and soaps—they never cure.

Mr. S. M. Marshall, bookkeeper of the Atlanta (Ga.) Gas Light Co., was poisoned with Poison Oak. He took Selschur, Arsenic and various other drugs, and applied externally numerous lotions and ointments. At times the swelling and inflammation was so severe he was almost blind. For eight years the poison would break out every season. His condition was much improved after taking one bottle of S. S. S., and all evidences of the disease disappeared.

People are often poisoned without knowing when or how. Explain your case fully to our physicians, and they will cheerfully give such information and advice as you require, without charge, and we will send at the same time an interesting book on Blood and Skin Diseases. ## TASTING OF LIQUORS.

There Is Known to Be a Good Deal of Humbug in the Expert Palate Claim.

Stories about the delicate "taste" of those who claim to be wine experts are always interesting. Recently we came across one in which Goethe figures, says the Buffalo Commercial.

At a small party at the court of Weimar the marshal asked permission to submit a nameless sample of wine. Accordingly a red wine was circulated, tasted, and much commended. Several of the company pronounced it Burgundy, but could not agree as to the special vintage of the year. Goethe alone tasted and tasted again, shook his head, and with a meditative air, set his glass on the table.

"Your excellency appears to be of a different opinion," said the court marshal. "May I ask what name you give the wine?"

"The wine," said the poet, "is quite unknown to me, but I do not think that it is a Burgundy. I should rather consider it a good Jena wine that has been kept for some while in a Madeira cask."

"And so, in fact it is," said the court marshal.

There is a great deal of humbug in this wine tasting and "expert palate" in liquors. We have seen several men smacking their lips over some "real old" whisky from a bottle labeled 1843, and discussing what the effect of the aging had been, when the real facts were that it was very ordinary whisky put into a bottle labeled as above the night before by some one who wanted to test the "experts."
